

Loading built-in data

The various R packages contain a number of existing datasets that are easy to load. The main command used to access these datasets is `data`:

data ()	# Brings up list of all available datasets , grouped by package data (counties)	# Loads the dataset named counties help (counties)	# We can find information about the dataset before or after loading